

(c. Online)

August 20, 2007

Free Ride Hybrid Chauffeur Service

They say the best things in life are free. You know, like love. Happiness. Or a cushy ride from a super-luxe car service.

Okay, so you — or someone (hello, expense account) — will have to pony up a little cash for that last one. But the ride can be guilt free, at least, now that Commonwealth Worldwide Chauffeured Transportation counts ecofriendly cars among its plush fleet. They have three four-passenger Toyota Prius hybrids available in Boston and three in New York City.

Do we even have to tell you that these are way more fuel efficient (hence, nicer to the environment) than any stretch limo (or worse, stretch SUV) will ever be? So you can sit back and relax with a clear conscience as you cruise to the airport, a night on the town, or a meal paid for by that corporate account of yours.

Just remember, there's no such thing as a free lunch.

Commonwealth Worldwide Chauffeured Transportation (617-787-5575 or commonwealthlimo.com).

E-mail Save Print Text

SPONSORED LINK

Nordstrom is opening its first Boston-area store at the Natick Collection. And since you do so love a good soiree, you're invited to be among the first in the city to set foot in the gorgeous new store. So clear your calendar Wednesday, September 5 for an elegant evening devoted to all things fabulous and fashionable.

